04-16 第二篇

Family Game Night: Fun That Brings Everyone Together

In today's busy world, families often eat in different rooms or spend evenings looking at phones instead of each other. [1] One simple way to change this is to set aside one night each week for games. No screens, no distractions—just the family sitting around a table, playing cards or board games, and laughing together. This tradition, known as "family game night," has been bringing families closer for generations. It reminds everyone that spending time together can be more fun than any video or social media.

Choosing the right games is important. [2] Very young children may enjoy simple matching games or dice games, while teenagers might prefer strategy（策略） games that need more thinking. Parents can pick games that suit different ages so that everyone can join in. Some families keep a special box of games that only comes out on game night, which makes the evening feel more special. The goal is to find activities that everyone can enjoy, not just the adults or the kids.

The rules of the games matter, but so do the rules of the night. [3] For example, phones should be put away, and everyone should take turns fairly. It is also a good idea to keep the mood light—winning is nice, but having fun together is more important. When someone loses, the family can laugh about it instead of getting upset. These small habits help make game night a safe and pleasant time for all. No one should leave the table feeling angry or left out.

Game night is also a chance to learn. [4] Children practice counting, reading, and following rules. They learn to wait for their turn and to accept both winning and losing. Parents and kids can talk naturally while playing, which builds trust and openness. Teens who might not share much at the dinner table often open up when they are focused on a game. In this way, games become a bridge between family members of different ages.

[5] From building better habits to creating lasting memories, family game night offers more than simple entertainment. It strengthens bonds, teaches life skills, and gives every family member a reason to look forward to the same evening every week. Perhaps it is time to dust off that old board game and start your own tradition.

选项

A. Yet many families are looking for ways to reconnect. B. Different family members have different interests and skill levels. C. A few basic rules can make the experience smoother and more enjoyable. D. Games provide chances for learning that often do not feel like schoolwork. E. In other words, the benefits of game night reach beyond the living room. F. All in all, this simple weekly habit can have a big effect on family life.

答案键（Answer Key）

[1] A [2] B [3] C [4] D [5] F

深度解析

- [1] A：
  - 线索：问题与解决方案过渡。空前描述"families often eat in different rooms or spend evenings looking at phones instead of each other"，指出现代家庭缺少共处时间。A选项"Yet many families are looking for ways to reconnect"（然而许多家庭正在寻找重新联结的方式）中"Yet"承接问题与现实，"looking for ways to reconnect"与空前"phones instead of each other"形成对比，自然引出空后"One simple way to change this is to set aside one night...for games"，衔接顺畅。
- [2] B：
  - 线索：选游戏时的考量因素。空前提出"Choosing the right games is important"，空后详述"Very young children may enjoy simple matching games...teenagers might prefer strategy games...suit different ages...everyone can join in"。B选项"Different family members have different interests and skill levels（能力水平）"与空后年龄与偏好差异一一对应，说明为何选游戏重要，逻辑紧密。
- [3] C：
  - 线索：当晚规则总领与举例。空前指出"The rules of the games matter, but so do the rules of the night"，空后举例"For example, phones should be put away...take turns fairly...keep the mood light"。C选项"A few basic rules can make the experience smoother and more enjoyable"（几条基本规则能让体验更顺畅、更愉快）与空后具体规则呼应，衔接自然。
- [4] D：
  - 线索：游戏与学习的关联。空前提出"Game night is also a chance to learn"，空后列举"Children practice counting, reading...learn to wait...accept winning and losing...talk naturally...builds trust"。D选项"Games provide chances for learning that often do not feel like schoolwork"（游戏提供学习机会，往往不像功课）与空前"chance to learn"及空后非正式学习方式契合，衔接顺畅。
- [5] F：
  - 线索：全文收束与升华。空[5]位于结尾段段首，空后列举"building better habits...creating lasting memories"并总结"strengthens bonds, teaches life skills"。F选项"All in all, this simple weekly habit can have a big effect on family life"（总之，这个简单的每周习惯能对家庭生活产生很大影响）用"All in all"总结全文，与空后内容形成升华，收束得当。

- 干扰项分析：
  - E. In other words, the benefits of game night reach beyond the living room.：总结游戏之夜的好处，易被误填[5]。但E用"In other words"表示换种说法，通常用于解释前文而非总结全文；空[5]后已是具体展开，需段首总领句。F的"All in all"为典型总结标记，与后文精准对应。E属"语义相近但功能错位"型干扰。 修正第二篇的选项逻辑，确保每空衔接正确： <｜tool_calls_begin｜><｜tool_call_begin｜> StrReplace