阅读理解（应用文） Lihua Middle School Author-Visit 2027 — Poet Xu Yuan-zhen Meets Grade 7—9

Lihua Middle School · Library + Chinese Department
Author-Visit 2027: "The Small World in a Poem" — with poet Xu Yuan-zhen
Fri 11 December 2027, 14:00 — 17:00, Main Hall

Once a year, Lihua invites a living Chinese writer to spend half a day with our students. We choose writers whose books we can actually read — not too difficult, not famous for fame's sake, but honest. This year we are lucky to welcome the poet Xu Yuan-zhen (born 1969), whose small collection "Quiet River" was in our school library's "Most-Borrowed Book for Grade 8" list for three years in a row (2024, 2025, 2026). Xu Yuan-zhen rarely gives talks in schools; this will be her first author visit in our city.

📚 Before You Come — Read One of These, If You Can

To make the afternoon richer, the library has placed 30 extra copies of each of the following at the "Author-Visit Shelf" near the staircase (free to borrow, one week):

- Quiet River — a small 62-page poetry book (recommended for all).
- Letters to My Daughter at Fourteen — 18 short prose letters (recommended for Grade 9).
- Two short poems will be posted in every classroom on Mon 7 December. Please read them at least once before Friday.

If you have no time to read a whole book, reading two short poems is enough. Xu Yuan-zhen herself has said: "One short poem that has truly entered a child is worth more than a whole shelf of big books she has only glanced at."

✍️ How to Sign Up for the Signing Session

- The signing session can hold only 120 students (time limits, not favouritism).
- Sign up on the school mini-app → Library → Author-Visit 2027. Opens Mon 01 December, 12:00; closes when 120 names are full or Thu 04 December, 17:30, whichever comes first.
- Please bring one of the following to be signed:
  - a copy of Quiet River (from the library, shops, or your home);
  - your own hardback notebook, on the first blank page;
  - a hand-copied poem (your own handwriting of any poem) on a small white card.
- No printed fan cards. No stickers. No gifts for the author.

🗣️ How to Ask a Good Question in the Q&A

Teachers and senior students have gently talked for years about what makes a good author-visit question. Here is our short guide:

1. Ask about the poem, not the person.
   Good: "What did the word lantern in that line mean to you?"
   Less good: "What is your favourite food?"
2. Be honest, even if the question is small.
   Good: "I did not understand line 3 of the poem 'Rain'. Could you help?"
3. One question per student, please. Let more classmates have a turn.
4. No autograph requests during the Q&A — that belongs to the signing session.
5. If you are too shy to speak, you may write your question on one of the pink slips at the door; we will read 6 of them aloud.

🤝 What We Ask from Every Student

- Arrive by 13:55; we start in real silence at 14:00.
- Phones off (not only silent) for the full three hours.
- No photos of the author or her slides, unless she gives permission.
- Stay for the whole afternoon, even if your favourite part finishes at 16:15. Leaving in the middle is unkind to both the author and your classmates.
- Thank the author quietly at the end — bowing your head slightly is enough; no gifts.

🙋 Volunteer Roles (22 students)

- 6 hall ushers (13:30–14:10).
- 4 microphone runners for the Q&A.
- 4 library helpers for the signing session (crowd flow, queue).
- 4 pink-slip readers for the silent questions.
- 4 closing "silent minute" timekeepers.

Sign-up: outside Room 208 or on the school mini-app. Deadline Thu 04 December, 17:30.

🧭 A Few Notes from the Headmaster

> "A real author visit is neither a show nor a sales event. It is a small chance for a reader to meet the writer whose sentences have already been inside her for months. The good news is that, by the time Friday afternoon comes, you and Xu Yuan-zhen have already met — quietly, on page 12 or 47. All that is left is to say thank you and to ask one honest question."
