中考英语完形填空：照顾小动物

完形填空原文

Our neighbour, Mrs Wang, went on a trip last month. She asked my family to take care of her cat, Xiao Bai, for two weeks. I was excited because I had always wanted to have a pet. Mum said it would be a good chance to learn about 1.

The first day, Xiao Bai hid under the sofa. She would not come out even when we put food and water near her. I felt a little 2. "Maybe she is scared because everything is new," Dad said. "We need to give her time and space." So we left her alone and spoke to her in a soft voice when we passed by.

By the third day, Xiao Bai began to come out. She walked slowly to her food bowl and ate a little. I sat on the floor a few metres away and did not move. 3, she came closer. She even let me stroke her head. Her fur was so soft! I was very happy.

Every morning I had to 4 her food and change her water. I also cleaned her litter box. At first I thought it was a lot of work, but I got used to it quickly. Mum said that taking care of a living thing taught us 5 — we had to think about its needs before our own.

One night, Xiao Bai did not eat her dinner. I was worried. I checked if she was hurt, but she looked fine. The next morning she was still not eating. I called Mrs Wang. She said Xiao Bai might be 6 her and feeling sad. She told me to spend more time playing with the cat. I tried that, and it worked. Xiao Bai began to eat again when I sat with her and talked to her.

When Mrs Wang came back, Xiao Bai ran to her at once. But before she left, she rubbed against my leg. It felt like she was saying thank you. I learned that animals have 7 too. They feel happy, scared and sad, just like us. Taking care of Xiao Bai made me understand that we should always be 8 to animals. I hope one day I can have a pet of my own and give it a happy 9. The two weeks with Xiao Bai was an experience I will never 10.
