中考英语完形填空：帮爸爸洗车

完形填空原文

Last Saturday morning, my father asked me if I wanted to help him wash his car. I was watching TV at the time and almost said no. But then I saw the tired look on his face and 1 my mind. "Sure, Dad," I said.

We carried two buckets of water, some sponges, and a bottle of car soap to the driveway. Dad showed me how to 2 the car with water first to remove the dust. Then we put soap on the sponges and began to scrub the doors and windows. I noticed that the car was really 3 — there was mud on the wheels and bird droppings on the roof.

"I have been too busy to wash it for weeks," Dad said with a sigh. I suddenly felt sorry for not 4 to help earlier. Dad works long hours every day and often comes home exhausted. Washing the car was a small thing, but it clearly meant a lot to him.

We worked together for about an hour. I washed the lower parts and Dad took care of the 5 because he was taller. We talked and laughed while working. Dad told me stories about his first car — an old red one that broke down all the time. He said that even though it caused many 6, he still loved it because it carried so many happy memories.

After we finished scrubbing, we rinsed the car with clean water and dried it with soft cloths. The car looked completely 7 — shiny and spotless. Dad stepped back and smiled. "Good job, son," he said, patting me on the shoulder.

Then Dad surprised me. He took me to a nearby restaurant for lunch. "This is my way of saying thank you," he said. I felt 8 because I thought helping family should not need any reward. But I could see that Dad was truly happy, and that made me happy too.

That afternoon, I realised something important. Spending time with family does not have to mean going on expensive trips or doing exciting activities. Sometimes, a simple task like washing a car can bring people 9 together. It is not about what you do — it is about who you do it 10.
