中考英语完形填空：学做早餐

完形填空原文

My parents both work early in the morning, so they usually leave home before I wake up. For years, my breakfast was just bread and milk from the fridge. One day, I decided to learn to cook a 1 breakfast for myself.

I started with something simple — fried eggs. I watched a short video online and thought it looked easy. I heated the pan, added some oil, and cracked an egg into it. But the oil was too hot, and the egg started to spit and pop. I jumped back in 2 and almost dropped the spatula. The egg turned out burnt on the bottom and raw on top. It was terrible.

I did not give up. The next morning, I tried again. This time, I kept the heat 3 and waited patiently. The egg cooked evenly and looked much better. I added a pinch of salt and ate it with toast. It was not perfect, but it tasted good enough to make me smile.

Over the following weeks, I learned to make more dishes. I could make porridge, boiled eggs, and even simple sandwiches with vegetables and cheese. I also learned to make pancakes from a 4 my grandmother gave me. She told me the secret was to mix the batter until it was smooth, with no lumps.

Making breakfast every morning became a 5. I set my alarm fifteen minutes earlier so I would have enough time. At first, it was hard to get out of bed, but soon I got used to it. I found that eating a hot, home-made breakfast made me feel more 6 throughout the morning.

My mother was surprised and pleased when she found out. "I did not know you could cook!" she said. She bought me a small cookbook for beginners. I looked through it and 7 several recipes I wanted to try, including omelettes and fruit salad.

Cooking breakfast also taught me to be more 8. I had to plan what ingredients to buy, manage my time in the morning, and clean up after myself. These might seem like small things, but they helped me become more independent.

Now, I sometimes make breakfast for the whole family on weekends. My father always says my pancakes are the best. I know he is being kind, but his words still give me a warm 9 inside.

Learning to cook was one of the most useful things I did during middle school. It gave me a life skill that I will 10 forever. And it all started with one burnt egg.
