中考英语完形填空：社区义卖活动

完形填空原文

Our neighbourhood held a charity fair last Saturday. The money would be used to help poor children in the village schools. I decided to take part and 1 some of my old books, toys, and clothes to sell.

I set up a small table in front of my house early that morning. I arranged everything neatly and wrote price tags. My little brother wanted to help, so I let him be in charge of the toy section. He was very 2 and welcomed every customer with a big smile.

The first person to stop was an old lady. She picked up a storybook and asked, "How much is this?" I said three yuan. She paid and said, "My granddaughter will love it. Thank you for doing this good 3." Her words made me feel warm inside.

More and more people came. A mother bought several picture books for her children. A middle-aged man 4 a box of old stamps that my father had given me. He said he collected stamps and was happy to find something interesting. I was glad that my things could find new owners who would 5 them.

By noon, we had sold almost half of our items. We used the money to buy some drinks and shared them with other volunteers. Everyone was tired but 6. We were working together for a good cause.

In the afternoon, a little girl came with her mother. She looked at a stuffed bear for a long time. Her mother said they could not afford it. I saw the 7 in the girl's eyes. I walked over and said, "This bear is a gift for you. You can have it for free." The girl's face lit up with joy. Her mother thanked me again and again. That moment made the whole day 8 for me.

When the fair ended, we counted the money. Our neighbourhood had raised over two thousand yuan. The organiser said we would buy school bags and stationery for the village children. I felt proud to have 9 to this. Even a small action can make a 10 when we work together.
