中考英语完形填空：制作家庭相册

完形填空原文

During the summer holiday, I found a box of old family photos in the attic. They were from when I was a baby and when my parents were young. Many photos were faded and some had turned yellow. I decided to make a family album to 1 these memories.

First, I bought a large album with thick pages and some special photo corners. I 2 the photos by year and by event. Photos from my first birthday went in one section, and our family trip to the seaside went in another. It took me two whole days to sort them all out.

I also wrote short captions under each photo. For example, under a photo of me learning to walk, I wrote: "My first steps, age one." Under a photo of my grandparents, I wrote: "Grandma and Grandpa's fiftieth anniversary." Writing these 3 helped me learn more about my family history. My father told me stories about his childhood as we looked at the old pictures together.

Some photos were torn at the corners. I used tape to 4 them carefully. I could not make them look perfect, but at least they would not get worse. I placed each photo gently in the album, making sure not to bend or damage them.

When the album was finished, I showed it to my family. My mother had tears in her eyes. She said, "Thank you for doing this. These photos are so 5 to us." My younger brother enjoyed looking at pictures of himself as a toddler. He could not believe he was ever that small!

I made a second album for my grandparents. I chose the best photos of our family gatherings and sent it to them. They called to say how much they 6 it. Grandpa said he would look at it every day. That made me feel warm inside.

Making the album taught me that memories are worth 7. In this digital age, we take many photos with our phones but often forget to look at them. Printing photos and putting them in an album helps us 8 and share our stories. I plan to add new photos to the album every year. One day, I will pass it on to my own children and tell them the stories 9 each picture. That will keep our family history 10 for generations.
