中考英语完形填空：开学第一天

完形填空原文

September 1st was a special day — it was the first day of the new school year. I woke up early and felt a mix of excitement and worry. Everything seemed 1 because I was entering a new grade with new teachers.

After breakfast, I put on my new school uniform and checked my bag one more time. I had prepared all my textbooks, notebooks and pens the night before. My mother smiled and said, "You look 2. Don't worry, you'll have a great day." Her words made me feel a little better.

When I arrived at school, the playground was full of students. Some were chatting happily, while others looked just as 3 as I was. I saw my best friend Lily near the school gate. She waved at me and ran over. "I'm so glad to see you!" she said. Having a friend nearby made me feel much more 4.

Our new classroom was on the third floor. It was bigger and brighter than last year's. The desks were arranged in neat rows. I chose a seat by the window so I could enjoy the 5 of the trees outside. Soon, our new head teacher walked in. She introduced herself as Ms. Wang and told us about the rules for the new term.

Ms. Wang seemed strict but 6. She said, "This year will be challenging, but I believe every one of you can succeed if you work hard." Her encouragement gave me 7. I decided to set higher goals for myself this year.

During the break, I met several new classmates. One boy named Tom had just moved to our city from Shanghai. He seemed shy at first, but we soon found that we both loved basketball. We agreed to 8 together after school. Making new friends was easier than I had expected.

By the end of the day, I no longer felt worried. Instead, I was looking forward to the days ahead. The new school year was full of 9. I wrote in my diary that night: "Today was a good start. I will try my best to make this year 10."
