中考英语完形填空：和同学下围棋

完形填空原文

Weiqi (Go) is an ancient Chinese board game. Last month, our school started a Weiqi club and I decided to join. At the first meeting, I met Li Ming, who had been playing for three years. He offered to 1 me.

"The rules seem complicated, but you'll understand 2 you practice more," Li Ming said. He taught me how to place the black and white stones on the board. At the beginning, I always made 3 and lost quickly. Li Ming never laughed at me. Instead, he encouraged me to think 4 before each move.

As weeks went by, I became more interested. I began to see that Weiqi was not just a game — it was about strategy and patience. Every game was different, and I learned something 5 each time. One afternoon, I finally won a game! I was so 6 that I couldn't stop smiling.

Now Weiqi has become my favourite after-school activity. Playing with Li Ming has not only improved my 7 but also strengthened our friendship. We often 8 about life while playing. I have learned that in Weiqi, as in life, we need to be careful and never give 9 easily. I'm looking forward to 10 the school Weiqi competition next month!
