中考英语完形填空：教妹妹学骑自行车

完形填空原文

Last weekend, my six-year-old sister Lily asked me to teach her how to ride a bicycle. She had been watching other kids ride in the park and wanted to 1 them.

I took out my old bicycle and adjusted the seat to make it low enough for her. Then I brought her to the open area near our apartment. Lily looked at the bicycle with both excitement and 2.

"Don't worry," I said. "I'll hold the back of the bicycle. You just need to keep your 3 on the handlebars and pedal forward." She nodded and climbed on.

At first, the bicycle wobbled badly. Lily screamed every time it 4 to one side. I held on tightly and ran beside her. My arms got tired quickly, but I didn't want to 5 her down.

After about twenty minutes, Lily started to find her balance. The bicycle became 6 to control. I slowly loosened my grip without telling her. She rode forward for about five meters on her own before she realized I had let go.

"I'm doing it! I'm doing it!" she shouted 7. But as soon as she looked back at me, she lost her balance and fell off. I rushed over to check on her. Luckily, she only had a small scratch on her knee.

I thought she would cry and refuse to continue. But to my 8, she stood up, brushed the dust off her clothes, and said, "Let me try again." I was really proud of her courage.

By the end of the afternoon, Lily could ride the bicycle by herself for a short 9. She was so happy that she rode around the park three times. Our parents came down to watch and clapped for her.

Teaching Lily to ride taught me something too: patience and encouragement can help someone 10 any challenge.
