完形填空原文

Last month, I joined a calligraphy club at school. I had always been interested in Chinese calligraphy. My grandfather used to write with a brush when I was a child, and I thought it looked very 1.

At the first lesson, our teacher Mr. Zhang showed us how to hold the brush correctly. "The brush must be 2 straight," he said. "And you need to control your hand carefully." I tried to copy him, but my hand shook. My first Chinese character looked 3. Mr. Zhang smiled and said, "Don't worry. It takes time to learn. 4 more and you'll improve."

I practiced every day after school. I started with simple characters like "一" and "人". At first, my lines were too thick or too thin. 5 I learned to control the pressure on the brush. The key was to move slowly and steadily. "Calligraphy is not only about writing," Mr. Zhang said. "It helps you become more 6 and focused."

After two months of practice, I could write several characters well. Our club would hold a small exhibition. Each of us needed to create a 7 work. I chose to write the poem "静夜思" by Li Bai. I practiced it many times until I was satisfied. On the day of the exhibition, I framed my work and hung it on the wall. My parents came to see it. My mother said she was 8 of me. That made me feel very happy.

Now calligraphy has become an important 9 of my life. Whenever I feel stressed, I sit down and write a few characters. It helps me calm down. I believe that learning calligraphy is one of the best 10 I have ever made. I will keep practicing and hope to become better.
