中考英语完形填空：和爸爸修自行车

完形填空原文

Last Sunday morning, I found that the front tire of my bicycle was flat. I was upset because I 1 to ride it to the library that afternoon.

My father saw my long face and said, "Why don't we fix it 2?" I was surprised because I had always thought repairing bikes was something only professional workers could do.

He took out a small toolbox from the garage and told me to turn the bike 3 down. Then he showed me how to remove the tire step by step. I watched 4 and tried to remember every detail.

The problem was a tiny nail stuck in the rubber. Father carefully pulled it out and patched the hole 5 a special rubber piece and glue. "This is called a puncture repair," he explained.

After waiting for the glue to dry, we put the tire 6 on the wheel. Father pumped it up and checked 7 there were any other leaks. Everything looked fine.

The whole repair took 8 than thirty minutes. I was amazed at how simple it was. Father said, "Many things in life seem difficult, but once you learn them, they become easy."

I thanked him for teaching me such a 9 skill. He smiled and said, "You'll find it even 10 useful when you grow up." That day, I learned much more than just fixing a bike.
